

Moscow Rolling Out Red Carpet for Fidel Castro

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow today prepared an ecstatic greeting for the first person—Cuba's Premier Fidel Castro—to raise the banner of communism triumphantly in the Western Hemisphere.

The bearded chief of the Caribbean island's Red government arrived Friday at an Arctic airport near Murmansk where he was greeted by First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan. The arrival took the Western world by surprise. Mikoyan was the man chosen by Soviet Premier Khrushchev to go to Havana last fall and explain both the emplacement and the withdrawal of Soviet rockets in Cuba.

Castro arrived in the Soviet Union's stark North without fanfare and with no Western correspondents present to witness the landing. So far as the records show, it was Castro's first visit to the Soviet Union although his son spent some time in Moscow at school.

Castro's obvious aim was to cement the Soviet-Cuban alliance and for the Soviet public, the culmination would come when he made his appearance atop the Lenin tomb in Red Square on May Day.

Castro received top government honors on his arrival. There was a guard of honor, and national anthems were played. Besides Mikoyan, Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, commander in chief of the Soviet Navy was present.

Castro and Mikoyan boarded a train which will bring them into Moscow Sunday morning.

The Cuban premier landed in Murmansk, not because of any deep-seated secrecy plot but because the regular Cuba-U.S.S.R. plane—a TU114 giant turboprop—always lands there. It leaves Havana every Sunday and Friday, landing in the world's largest city north of the Arctic Circle the same day.

The reason for this route is that no country on the way will permit such a flight to land on or overfly its territory and consequently it must fly the only available over-ocean route.

Castro's intention to visit Russia was announced in Havana over a week ago and Khrushchev repeated it in a speech Wednesday. Neither one mentioned the date, however.

Guards Shot to Death in Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—The driver and two bodyguards taking President Francois Duvalier's two children to school were shot to death today by gunmen firing from an automobile, eyewitnesses reported.

The children, Jean-Claude, 12, and Simone, 14, were unhurt, witnesses said. The children ran into the school as the gunmen's auto raced off.

Only three shots were fired, reports said, felling the driver of the presidential car and bodyguards as they drew their guns in front of the school's gates, two blocks from the National Palace.

The terrorism, the first in two years, was believed to be intended as a warning to Duvalier. Duvalier's militia and steel-helmeted police blocked off streets and checked all traffic.

Tanks rolled out of the palace yard and halted near the entrance, and guards took up positions around the palace.

The security force was said to be searching for several well-known businessmen, but there was no statement from the Duvalier regime.

Jean-Claude and Simone attend the Methodist Bird College. Duvalier withdrew them from a Roman Catholic school in a feud with the Catholic Church that began three years ago.

Haitians have been on edge lately over whispers that a revolt would be staged against Duvalier by May 15.

Duvalier fired 60 high-ranking army officers Wednesday in an apparent move to head off a possible coup by the armed forces. Three more officers resigned Thursday.

MOON REHEARSAL—A two-man lunar landing "bug" goes through a critical maneuver during a practice session at the Martin Co. in Baltimore. Sometime around the end of the decade, such a capsule (officially, Lunar Excursion Module, or LEM), will leave its Apollo mothership in orbit around the moon. Two astronauts will land in the "bug," look around and then return to a third companion in the Apollo. In picture above, technicians are simulating a docking maneuver with an Apollo nose cone.

Kaiser Ups Salaries of Steelworkers

FONTANA, Calif. (AP)—Kaiser steelworkers, their paychecks fattened under a new cost-saving plan, went to work today convinced that they have a good thing going for them.

The company and its employees split nearly a million dollars. Some 3,930 employees covered by the plan divided $312,000 Thursday when the company distributed the savings from March, the first month of its operation.

The average bonus came to about $80 per man, with some workers getting nearly $200.

"Man, I got it made," shouted D. D. Prazce, a Riverside machinist, as he walked away from the pay window. His paycheck showed an extra $122.62. "I figured I'd get something like $20."

Union officials representing the covered employees indicated satisfaction with the bonus plan.

Kaiser said savings for March came to $962,000. The figure is based on the cost of producing steel at the Fontana plant in 1961.

Under the formula announced last December, the company will take about two-thirds of the savings, with the other third going to the employees. Workers share in the savings according to their type of work.

The bonus averages about 55 cents an hour in addition to $3.15 regular hourly pay for those eligible to share.

Although the Kaiser plan was fashioned only for that company, the rest of the industry is watching its outcome.

HARRISON, Ark. (AP)—Sentencing of Rburl Rogers, 40, of Harrison, found guilty Thursday of the rape of a 12-year-old girl, has been set for Monday, April 29.

Rogers had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, but had been found without psychosis.

Grant for Five Arkansas Towns

WASHINGTON (AP)—Approval of five grants for public works projects in Arkansas by the Community Facilities Administration was announced Thursday by Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark.

They were:
A grant of $35,450 for Star City in Lincoln County to finance a new municipal building and for renovation of an existing library building. The grant is to be matched with $45,450 in local funds.

A grant of $16,500 for Reed in Desha County for water facilities; a grant of $16,000 for water facilities at Tillar in Drew County; of $70,000 for water facilities at Wickes in Polk County and of $17,000 for additions to the water supply system at Wilmar in Drew County.

Opinion Split Over Premier Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev admits he is aging like any mortal and won't head the Soviet Communist party and government forever. But foreign opinion here was split today over whether the 69-year-old leader brought the matter up in public because he plans to give up either post soon.

"I am already 69 and I have the right to say so," Khrushchev told a meeting of industry and construction workers. "Everyone understands that I cannot hold for all time the position I now have in the party and the state."

The three-hour speech, made on Wednesday, was published in full today in all Moscow newspapers.

Khrushchev made no mention of quitting either post. But his remarks set off a dispute among Western observers in Moscow whether he might announce such plans at a meeting of the party central committee called for May 28. It has been announced that the committee will discuss ideological matters.

Khrushchev holds two official posts: chairman of the council of ministers, or premier, and first secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

Some observers are convinced Khrushchev is determined to hold onto both jobs until he dies. Others have been speculating that the Soviet leader might give up the secretaryship, the premiership or both.

(U.S. experts in Washington expressed doubt that Khrushchev is going to step down for a while. Despite occasional rumors to the contrary, Washington authorities have no evidence that Khrushchev is in danger of being ousted from his Kremlin command.)

Several members of the Soviet hierarchy are considered possible political heirs to Khrushchev, and three deputy premiers are considered leading contenders. They are Frol R. Kozlov, 54, a Khrushchev favorite; Anastas I. Mikoyan, 67, also a close associate, and Alexei Kosygin, 50, an industrial authority.

Under the system of party authority which Khrushchev stressed in his speech, the party's central committee would choose his successor.

Khrushchev dwelt at length on the party's drive to impose authority on Soviet art and literature. In an apparent reply to intellectuals who have assailed his insistence on cultural conformity, Khrushchev said that the "tried and tested leader of the Soviet people is our Communist party, its Leninist central committee to which the most authoritative men and women in the party and the country are elected."

"I believe that no one will suspect that in stating this, I have in mind any special standing of my own in the party," he said.

"For everyone understands that I cannot hold for all time the position I now have in the party and the state. Therefore, speaking of this, I do not think of myself, but of our Leninist party, the Soviet people and the great cause of communism."

He warned the intellectuals that the party did not intend to give up its controls when it assailed the Stalin "cult of the personality."

Unfair Charge (AP)—A charge of unfair labor practices has been filed against Dierks Forest, Inc. by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. The charge was filed in connection with the firm's wood treating plant at DeQueen and alleges Dierks has refused to bargain with the union. The National Labor Relations Board has certified the union as representative of the 175 employees at the plant.

Ex-Marine Tells How Corps Silenced Him

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former Marine unfolds on Capitol Hill today his story that he was hustled out of the corps and ordered "to get lost and keep my mouth shut" about the 1961 slaying of a Cuban—allegedly suspected of being a spy—at the Navy's Guantanamo, Cuba, base.

The former 1st Lieutenant, William A. Szili, said he was discharged after, he asserted, he had helped a captain—a Medal of Honor winner—dispose of the body.

Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., told newsmen he had asked Szili, now living in Norristown, Pa., to discuss the case with him today to see if there is a chance of appeal.

The congressman emphasized, however, that everything will depend on what Szili tells him and on what the Korean War veteran wants to do himself.

"I feel that we should investigate before pursuing other lines of action," said Schweiker.

Szili has protested before—to Schweiker and other members of the Pennsylvania congressional delegation and to President Kennedy—but without disclosing the incident he says was behind his discharge.

Szili related his story Friday to The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and explained that he had to sign a statement before his discharge saying he knew he could be fined $10,000 or imprisoned 10 years if he said anything about the slaying.

He told the Bulletin the captain he had helped to hide the body was Arthur Jackson.

In San Jose, Calif., former Marine Capt. Arthur J. Jackson, 38, now a mail carrier, referred all questions to the Defense Department. He said, "It's a security matter." He refused to confirm or deny whether he was the Jackson referred to by Szili. He won the Medal of Honor, the country's highest decoration, for bravery in World War II.

Both the Defense Department and the Marine Corps refused comment.

In October, 1961 the body of a Cuban named Ruben Lopez was found inside the base. Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government charged he had been tortured and killed because he had Castro sympathies and demanded that the persons responsible be turned over.

Without disclosing any details, the United States expressed regret for Lopez' death and pressed an investigation which it completed late in 1961. The Defense Department did not make a report of the investigation public, saying only that no charges had been filed.

Jack Anderson wrote about the incident in Drew Pearson's Washington column just before Szili's interview with the Bulletin.

According to Anderson's account, Lopez, a bus driver on the naval base, was suspected of being a Castro agent and was kept under surveillance. Jackson found Lopez in a restricted area at night without reason for being there.

Jackson decided to throw him off the base and got Szili out of bed to help him, according to Anderson. They decided to take the Cuban out through a rear gate, but the gate's lock was jammed. Jackson remained along with Lopez while Szili went off to get tools to fix the lock.

Lopez lingered at Jackson in an effort to grab the captain's pistol, Anderson said, and Jackson shot and killed the Cuban.

PATCHWORK FOR TOMORROW—"Bald spots" seen from the air over the vast Douglas fir regions of Oregon and Washington are not pranks of nature. They are areas cut over according to plan, with tomorrow's forestry requirements in mind. (Note outlines of logging roads through patches.) Areas are then reseeded by nature from surrounding timber. The Douglas fir seedlings, which would not survive in shade of larger trees, grow up together as uniform stands of usable timber.

Recalls the Early Day of Mineral Springs and Trips to Hope With Load of Cotton

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Spring is here, and with it comes the realization that "springs" are all around us. To name a few, we have Shover Springs, Mineral Springs, Spring Hill. For our historical pilgrimage today, let's look at Mineral Springs, a community which has found itself as part of different counties at different times.

When Oscar P. Graves, the late father of O. A. Graves, first settled near Mineral Springs, the town was in Hempstead County, and the county line between Hempstead and Sevier Counties ran right through his farm. At the time there was no Howard County, and Hempstead covered most of Southwest Arkansas. Later when Howard County was formed from parts of Hempstead and Sevier, Mineral Springs went to Howard County instead of Hempstead.

Dr. Green and Elisha Reynolds are credited with founding the town. The first Howard County judge was Judge Corbell from Mineral Springs. This is also the home of the Deloneys, of whom one, Miss Jennie Deloney, attained much notoriety as an artist. Other prominent families of early times were the Hays, Cowlings, Milwees, Wallaces, Mulkeys, Martins, Croftons, Edwards, Kents, Burtons, Greathouses, Greens, Reynolds, and Hendricks.

Of course, the mineral springs from which the town got its name was the attraction which was probably responsible for the site being chosen for a settlement in the first place. In a special centennial issue of the Star in 1936, O. A. Graves recalled interesting high lights concerning Mineral Springs. He remembered, for instance, how the young men used to escort the young girls down to the spring for a drink on the way to and from church. There was a shed over it and it formed a nice "sparkling" place.

Mineral Springs was a seat of learning in the early days, and people from Ben Lamond, Brownstown and the other communities would attend this academy, which was conducted by Professor Hays, father of the late Mrs. K. G. McRae.

Mr. Graves said they used to come to Hope to sell their cotton, and it took two days to make the trip. Usually, they would come as far as Caney Creek the first day and camp there, coming on into Hope early the next morning to dispose of their cotton.

After the railroad went through Nashville and folks around Mineral Springs started taking their cotton to Nashville instead of to Hope, Mr. Graves stopped coming to Hope so often.

When he did come here, though, he thought the town looked so big and prosperous that he remarked to an uncle, "Well, I may stay on the farm until I'm 21, but then I'm coming to town."

He made good his vow and later became mayor of Hope.

School Appraisal Plan Approved

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A plan advanced by Education Commissioner A. W. Ford for appraisal of public schools has drawn approval from Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association.

Under the plan a team from the department of education would appraise each district and make the findings public.

Faubus said "I like the idea. It seems to me that schools are a little too much isolated from the people. There's a great lack of information about the affairs of local schools."

Rozzell said the AEA would cooperate in any movement promising improvement of education.

No decision announcement is expected soon, it was said.

Daylight Savings Time Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Some 113.3 million Americans will lose an hour apiece Sunday—all because of Ben Franklin.

When he was ambassador to France almost 200 years ago, thirty Ben awoke unusually early one morning and found daylight streaming through his window while most of the citizens of the city still slept.

Frugal Ben worried about the "wasted" daylight and conceived a plan to conserve the daylight by advancing clocks one hour.

This was the germ of Daylight Saving Time, which becomes effective generally at 2 a.m. Sunday in more than half the states, all or in part, and the District of Columbia.

The millions who lose an hour each when clocks are set ahead to comply with the new schedule will regain it when the clocks are turned back an hour in the fall.

Sees Politics by President Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky has charged President Kennedy with playing politics over Cuba.

There are "distinct political overtones," Morton told the Senate Thursday, to Kennedy's suggestion at a news conference Wednesday that Fidel Castro might not be a problem now if the Eisenhower administration had taken action.

"During the 1950s there were few, if any, Republican voices raised in support of Castro and there were few, if any, Democratic voices raised in condemnation of Castro," Morton declared. "This record is clear."

The Kentuckian, a former Republican national chairman, said the Eisenhower administration took steps in March 1960 to train and equip an expeditionary force of Cuban exiles to invade Cuba.

"For various reasons, including the difficulty of finding proper leadership," Morton continued, the plan could not be implemented during the administration's remaining 10 months in power.

When the invasion was attempted under the Kennedy administration in April 1961 at the Bay of Pigs it failed, Morton added.

The senator said Kennedy had showed bold initiative during the missile showdown last fall, but now is pursuing "a wishy-washy policy of backing and stalling."

Other Republicans who commented Thursday picked up Kennedy's challenge to critics of his Cuban policy to say whether they favor an invasion to topple Castro.

"Republicans have not advocated invasion of Cuba," said Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. "Neither have they shrunk because of fear from the possibility of this happening."

Goldwater said that while he does not advocate early invasion of the island, he is not afraid of going to war over Cuba.

"If we are not willing to take risks in this world," he said in an interview, "we might as well give up."

Another persistent critic of the administration, Rep. William C. Cramer of Florida, said in a separate interview: "President Kennedy is peddling a fear-of-war psychosis to hide his own fear of action."

"Nobody in Congress is proposing war," Cramer said. "But the United States has sent troops to Thailand and Viet Nam. It has troops in Berlin. And the President says we can't do anything about Cuba. That sounds very hollow to me."

Spo Officer Reveals Ruse

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Police Chief Milford Sanders revealed Thursday what may have been a ruse used Monday in connection with the bombing of Pros. Atty. David B. Whittington's car.

Sanders said police received a phone call that something was going to happen at the Vapors supper club the same night that Whittington's car was damaged by a light charge of dynamite. No one was injured.

A number of officers were sent to the club, Sanders said. He added that such calls are received frequently and they are always checked.

The Vapors was recently bombed and several persons were injured.

GOP Hopeful Rockefeller, May Take Bride

By CHARLES L. WEST

NEW YORK (AP)—Public speculation about Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's possible marriage plans accelerated today, fueled by a little fact and a lot of conjecture.

The lady whom rumor links with the Republican governor, 54, newly divorced Margaretta (Happy) Fitter Murphy, 36, remained in seclusion.

Just as the governor has refused to discuss his own divorce of 13 months ago, so has he refused to comment on the divorce four weeks ago of Mrs. Murphy, social register former member of his staff.

Her former husband, Dr. James S. Murphy, 41, works as a medical researcher for the Rockefeller Institute.

Although Rockefeller's press secretary painstakingly pointed out that the "no comment" should be taken to mean only that, the governor's refusal to quiet the rumors—and the smile on his face as he does so—inevitably prompted speculation.

And a rare three-week gap in Rockefeller's official schedule provided an anchor of fact for the gossip.

Rumors raced through political and social circles.

In Albany, sparked partly by cancellation of the governor's news conference Tuesday, the state capital buzzed this week with speculation that the marriage had occurred.

On Long Island, the gossip was that the marriage would take place there this weekend in the area of Southampton, where many in the Rockefeller financial circles make their home.

Amid the conjecture was the fact that Rockefeller's calendar shows no official engagements from May 9 to May 31. The governor, who has been shuttling between state business and speaking engagements across the nation, seldom has such a lull.

Both Mrs. Murphy and Rockefeller's former wife, Mary Todhunter Clark, 55, are members of socially prominent Philadelphia families. Both are heiresses.

Each chose divorce when marriage failed, the Rockefellers after 31 years and the Murphys after 14. Mrs. Rockefeller obtained her decree in Reno March 16, 1962, and Mrs. Murphy in San Valley April 1, Nevada and Idaho are the only states in the nation requiring only six-week residence.

Follows in Footsteps of G-granddad

Even before there was a Camden southern hospitality was well known in the home of Peter McCollum. Back in 1844 this house was the center for the social life in the surrounding area. Today John Stinson, the great grandson of this early pioneer is following the same traditions and extending the same hearty welcome to guests as in the days when what is now Camden was known as Ecore Fabre and Peter McCollum and his wife gave the brilliant evening parties assisted by their daughters.

Only one of these daughters, Virginia, lived her life out in Camden. She married George Stinson in Bath, Maine in 1827 and came to Camden in 1848 at the age of 21.

On April 20, 1963, the grandchildren of this couple had a family reunion in Camden—the first one in most a dozen years and the only one since their parents passed away.

A host of friends enjoyed the hospitality of the Stinson home, when John and Irma Stinson, honored members of the family in their home on Washington Street. This house is on the site of the original home of George Stinson which was built in 1847. Only two blocks away Peter McCollum's home—now a historic shrine—still stands.

In many areas the name of Camden is known because of the grandchildren of this couple. George's namesake, George A. Stinson of Pittsburgh, is vice president and treasurer of National Steel, the fifth largest steel company in the world. His wife Betty and their four children were all here for the family gathering. Though George's unusual position necessitates travel among properties and mills in Detroit, Buffalo, and Weirton, W. Va. he comes to Camden often. In a recent conversation he mentioned many prominent Arkansans he has met in his travels. He told of the vast ore mines massive furnaces and the millions of tons of steel made each year by his company. I realized that here was a young attorney and steel mill executive of whom is hometown of Camden and his native state could be very proud.

Laura Prochnow, the oldest grandchild of the pioneer couple was here for the reunion. Her charming personality is familiar in banking circles as her husband Herbert is president of the First National Bank in Chicago. During Eisenhower's administration, he served in the State Department. Herbert Prochnow has authored several books on the banking, and is a prominent economist and after dinner speaker. Their son is an attorney in the legal department of the bank.

From Lake Forest, Ill., Catherine Aldrich, another granddaughter came with her husband, daughter, son-in-law and grandchildren. J. E. Aldrich is in the advertising business and is especially interested in trade publications on construction.

Virginia, their daughter, is the namesake of her great grandmother. Her husband John Munson is in the steel business with Amsted Industries which make railroad cars and all types of railroad equipment.

The grandchild who traveled the most miles to come to the reunion was John's twin sister, Alice and her husband and son, Ralph Whitaker is publisher of the Ojai Valley, Calif. News.

As I talked with these interesting people I thought of the days when their grandparents first came to Camden, then of the days when I knew their parents.

as neighbors. So Alice Loving Stinson's charm and ability made her a perfect hostess and an excellent clubwoman. Her husband, John McCollum Stinson, often recalled stories of interesting days when his father had a jewelry store in the beautiful little town on the Ouachita river and where his own son, John Stinson still conducts the business. The following advertisement of the Ouachita Herald in 1850 gives an idea of the stock of goods handled by George Stinson.

"Just received, consisting of late style car-drops and hoops, rings, pins of various patterns (some very pretty for daquerrreotypes) cuff links, chains, collar and sleeve buttons, gold pens etc. Also on hand a large assortment of violins, accordions, flutinas, banjos and numerous musical instruments. Fine pocket and Bowie knives, pistols, all kinds of brushes, pormanteaus, purses and divers other fancy goods." Calendar watches and music boxes were popular items in the store."

There have been changing jewelry styles since George Stinson came from Maine and opened his store in 1850 on a site near the boat landing on the Ouachita river. It introduced into Camden a variety of goods, some of which like wall paper were new ideas for those days.

The only time the store was ever closed was during the Civil War months when George Stinson served in the Confederate Army. He lost one eye at Shiloh. Elizabeth Stinson came down from Maine and was a pioneer business woman in her brother's store. In 1889 John Stinson, son of the founder entered the firm and in 1932 his son became manager. John Stinson, present owner and a manager of the store lives with his wife and three children in the family home where the reunion was held.

In the early thirties the store was moved to its present location. Often a visitor stops to tell John Stinson or his young son by the same name of a family heirloom that was purchased many years ago when the store was young and located "under the hill"—convenient to the steamboat landing which was the principal means of transportation then.

This family has had a far reaching influence on Camden. As I watched the little great grandchildren, even great great grandchildren of Peter McCollum under the huge oak tree on the lawn of the Stinson home where once General Steele had his head-

Businessmen Call for a Cut in Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of prominent businessmen headed by Henry Ford II has called for a $10 billion cut in corporate and individual taxes—a move hailed by President Kennedy as demonstrating "a high sense of statesmanship."

The call for a tax cut was in a statement of principles issued by Ford and 35 other industrialists and financiers Thursday as they launched a drive to whip up interest in tax reduction.

Among the major recommendations of the group, called the Business Committee for Tax Reduction in 1963, are that Congress make a substantial part of the reduction effective as early as possible this year and that a reasonable balance be struck between federal income and expenditures.

The plan the President has presented to Congress—a three-year $13.6-billion cut to be partly offset by $3.4 billion of revenue-raising changes in the tax structure—was not endorsed as such.

In fact, the businessmen who met Thursday with Kennedy at the White House suggested specifically that consideration of revisions should be removed from the path of tax reduction lest cuts in rates be snarled in debate.

"Personally, I don't agree with the proposed reforms," Ford told a news conference. Still, the new group is operating with the active support of the White House and the Treasury Department, which are pushing hard for congressional approval of a tax cut and are trying to rally as much support in the business community as possible.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and other administration officials addressed the group Thursday. The President's subsequent statement was in the nature of a salute. While the official Treasury position still is that tax cuts and tax revision should be considered together, there has been increasing evidence that the administration would sidetrack revision if necessary to get a tax cut enacted.

thought of their heritage—but even more important I felt these children realize already the value of family ties for it has been passed down to them in such a gracious manner.

Kennedy himself has said nothing should stand in the way of rate cuts this year.

The President acknowledged in his statement that the businessmen were not wholly in accord with his proposals. Nevertheless, he said, "their action indicates a substantial area of commonly held views which is far more significant than the area of difference."

In one point of difference with the administration, the committee advocated that a proposal for a 5-per cent floor on itemized deductions be set aside. There is a difference in emphasis, too, in that the administration favors a three-year plan of reduction, while the businessmen want the major slice to take effect as early as possible.

On rate cutting, the businessmen and the administration generally are in agreement. The business group called for lowering the corporate income tax rate from 52 per cent to at least 47 per cent. It said individual rates—which now range from 20 to 91 per cent—should be lowered too, but made no specific recommendation as to how much.

As for spending, the businessmen said they advocate "rigid expenditure discipline."

Price Fixing Hearing s Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)—An assistant U.S. attorney general advocates legislation to halt "loss leader" sales, rather than a general "quality stabilization" bill, such as introduced by Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark.

Lee Loevinger told a House Commerce Subcommittee Wednesday that the quality stabilization measure would help big manufacturers, but not small firms.

If there is concern about "loss leaders" (the sale of goods below cost to attract customers) then it would be better for Congress to pass a bill prohibiting such action, he said.

The subcommittee is considering the old question of whether such a measure as proposed by Harris constitutes "price fixing" or "fair trade" legislation.

Harris defended his bill Wednesday, saying he "could just not agree" with the views of Loevinger that the legislation is not necessary.

Loevinger is in charge of the anti-trust division of the Justice Department. The department has traditionally been against such legislation.

Harris' bill would permit a manufacturer who owns a brand name or trademark to revoke the right of a retailer to sell his goods if the retailer used them for "bait merchandising" or sold them at a price lower than the manufacturer's resale price.

Loevinger said neither Harris' bill nor any loss leader legislation would reach purely intrastate transactions.

J. Lester Hayman of Morgantown, W. Va., representing the Virginia State Pharmaceutical Association, called for passage of the legislation. He said brand names and trademarks protect consumers from misrepresentation as to the source of products.

Hayman said "brand names and trademarks protect their owners against unscrupulous merchants trading on the reputation and the public acceptance which their products have earned over the years."

Sam Karoll, a director of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers, said the public favors protection of brand names from predatory practices and contended the Harris bill would be of help to smaller businessmen.

Hays to Speak at Church Meet

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Brooks Hays, special assistant to President Kennedy, will be principal speaker at a session ending the 1963 convention of the Arkansas Christian (Disciples of Christ) Churches tonight.

The convention opened Tuesday with 1,200 delegates registered. Rev. Robert A. Fudge, minister of the First Christian Church of Hot Springs, was nominated Thursday as president of the convention. Nomination is tantamount to election.

Officers were to be elected today. Other nominees were R. L. Martin of Fort Smith, first vice president and Mrs. W. H. Moss of Little Rock, second vice president.

Executive committee nominees were Rev. Roy Belcher, Pine Bluff; Mrs. Fay Maxey, Bentonville; Mrs. Charles Murphy, El Dorado; Ray Spiller, Little Rock; Oran Coby, Texarkana and J. O. Murphy, North Little Rock.

LET TIME HELP SOLVE PROBLEM

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: A girl at high and I are the same age, 17; in the same class, senior; have the same tastes and are in love. Our parents have forbidden us seeing one another because we are of different faith and of different nationality.

As for the religion, we've solved that. And the difference in nationality isn't worth mentioning. Neither of us want to marry until we finish college. Still our parents violently oppose our dating.

We have told them that any attempt to break us up will only bring us closer together and cause greater conflict in our home life. They refuse to give. What should we do?—M. and N.

Dear M. and N. Time is a great solver of problems. Go along with your parents' ruling for the present. You're only 17. First prove worthy of one another by making the most of your lives at school and in the home. If the results are outstanding your families will be proud instead of sorry to see you two united. Success attracts success and that goes for everything in life. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet "Ambition."

Dear Helen: On the whole your advice is admirable. However, there are times when we readers are forced to believe you have weak convictions.

Just ask yourself and honestly answer: Do men go to burlesque shows for art's sake? Perhaps one in a million. They go to see the parts of a woman's body that should be seen only by her husband; a precious privilege. Results? Men are normal and the nude body of women excites certain desires. When they leave the theater they are going to do something about it. Many an illegitimate, precious child is the result. The naked body was not an inducement to sin until Eve sinned. Since then God says in the Bible we must be modest.

You write that "strippers" are moral. Can you see them walking beside Jesus trying to get folk to live Godly lives? I sense in writings that no one can change your thoughts, but ask yourself, "Would I want to be performing as a strip-teaser for Jesus?"

From a man that thinks a woman's body is a beautiful creation and who thanks God for a wife that is modest, Godly, fun-loving and beautiful.

Dear Man: Mary Magdalene walked with Jesus to the cross and was the first to behold him at the Resurrection. It depends upon what you call a Godly life. In my book, the basic requisites for such a life are sincerity and compassion. Have you forgotten Jesus' words, "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her (Mary Magdalene) . . . Ye judge after the flesh. I judge no man."

Dear Helen: I'm a bean-pole in love with a shorty. People laugh when they see us dancing. This makes us very sensitive. Should we break up or face the laughter that we're sure to provoke when together?—Befuddled

Dear Befuddled: Disraeli, one of England's greatest Prime Ministers, was small in stature and his beloved Becky half again as tall as he. Yet theirs remains a historical example of a married love that never waned. So, if you and the boy care for one another, laugh with the crowd. However, judging from the quality of your handwriting and general organization of your letter, I doubt that you are mature enough to achieve such independence. Worry about your schooling and not the boy. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Teen-age Code."

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE LAST TO HEAR SUCCESS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Montana, who won a Mrs. America contest home decoration event, was about the last to hear of her success.

The news reached her in the form of congratulatory telegrams from her home state. Judges named Gloria Heggen, 38, of Eklatka, Mont., top home decorator Wednesday and duly told reporters their choice. Next day, Mrs. Heggen was bewildered by telegrams received from friends in her home town and other Montana communities.

She checked with contest officials. They said they had forgotten to notify her.

In Thursday's competition, Mrs. Maine, Phyllis Brynes, of Portland, won the hair styling event.

We are in peril... everyone of us, every business, home, church, nation — the whole world. But there is a Beacon Light to Guide us. How foolish if we batten down the hatches, close the doors, and speed-up the noisy music. We may shut out the sound of waves, sight of rocks, and the roar of storms, BUT WE CAN'T SHUT OUT GOD. He is the Light in every storm and will surely guide your ship when the seas are heavy. There will be light in darkness for those who look upward. His church supplies hope for souls whose ambitions have been wrecked. There shall be "LIGHT IN THE DARK."
